Men and Animals Wilted in Tuesday's Almost Unbearable Heat.

The stifling heat continued Tuesday and as a result business was practically at a standstill. Many builders employing masons and carpenters stopped work in the forenoon because of the excessive heat. All over the city people could be seen endeavoring to keep cool in one way or another. Horses hardly moved out of a stall, dogs even failed to wag their tails and the rasping sound of the lawnmower of the automobiles was nearly still. Everyone seemed almost completely fatigued and did not appear to care whether school kept or not.

At 2:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the thermometer registered 101 degrees in front of Wilson's on Main street. The high mark about the city compared favorably with the marks for previous days. The heat was so oppressive that many people, especially the men, were sitting on the sidewalks and in the shade of trees, waiting for the evening breeze. The men will, however, report for work daily, except Sundays, at 6:30 a. m. This concession is greatly appreciated by the employees of the three companies.

SATURDAY HALF-HOLIDAYS PROMISED.

Tuesday, Hillhouse & Taylor, the Willimantic Lumber & Coal Co. and the Lincoln & Ross Lumber & Coal Co. have announced that during the present month and August they will give their men Saturday afternoons off. The men will, however, report for work daily, except Sundays, at 6:30 a. m. This concession is greatly appreciated by the employees of the three companies.

Monday's meeting was the first that the ladies had held since January, that the president, Mrs. George E. Stiles, was able to attend because of a lengthy illness. At the conclusion of the business session a social hour was enjoyed.

Workers Have to Give Up.

Excessive heat forced the men who are laying brick on the new addition of the Union mill at Moosup to cease work Tuesday. Many other outside workers in towns in this vicinity have also given up the long and hot stress of the heat and will work no more until the danger of prostrations is past. At 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the thermometer at Burroughs store had risen under the direct rays of the sun to 102.

In default of the required bond of $2,000, he is in custody in the town hall building at Central Village during Tuesday. Witnesses against him were present Tuesday morning, and Dansereau was successful in making such arrangements with his attorney as to permit him to leave the town hall building. Plan Another Outing.

It has been decided that the Bohemian club will have another outing this summer. The club is planning to go to Alexander's lake, although this year the date has not been decided. Last year's outing was such a success that the members are unanimously in favor of another.

No More Sunday Baseball.

With the first attempt to play Sunday ball in Killingly is in progress in various cities and towns in Connecticut, there has come protest from citizens and action by the authorities that undoubtedly will mark the end of such proceedings for the summer. The promoters of the first game here, held in court and promised to arrange no more games. It is reasonably safe to assume that the prompt action taken in their cases will deter others from promoting the sport on the Sabbath. In spite of the opposition shown there are hundreds in Killingly and surrounding towns in favor of Sunday baseball, but the law is against them and their only hope is to have the legislature pass the bill pending, that in its provisions permits the playing of strictly amateur games on Sunday.

DANSREAU'S CAREER

Recalled in Connection with Present Charge.

It was recalled by Danielson residents Tuesday that nearly a score of years ago, Charles Dansereau, now held on a serious charge in the town of Plainfield, gave, after his arrest for horse stealing, information that allowed local and other officers to go through Canterbury, Brooklyn, Westminister and other towns and places in this section and recover as many as 37 horses stolen and disposed of to parties who had been bought in good faith. The horses were eventually identified and returned to owners in many towns and cities in southern New England.

WEDDING.

Donias—Nadeau.

A Worcester paper of Tuesday had the following account related to a wedding of local interest: Miss Florance Nadeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nadeau, and Clement Donias, Jr., son of Clement Donias, a cousin of Dr. J. S. Donias, were married Monday morning at Notre Dame church, Rev. L. D. Triegnan performing the ceremony.

SUNDAY BASEBALL.

Will Not Be Attempted Again by Putnam Promoters.

Sunday baseball is dead hereabouts as long as the present statute prohibiting the same remains on the books. This belief is generally accepted, after the first game here, held in court and promised to arrange no more games. It is reasonably safe to assume that the prompt action taken in their cases will deter others from promoting the sport on the Sabbath.
